Opis produktu

Ford has finally manufactured a Focus wielding the "RS" badge, and we couldn't be happier. We wanted to improve and upgrade a lot of things on this car and among those priorities had to be an intake. Our engineers have spent many hours in development, performing a handful of tests and data collection, so that our intake gives you the right results. This is a full intake, replacing every core component in the OEM system, including the airbox and the intake pipe. Our kit includes a 3" aluminum pipe that routes all the way to the turbo, with all of the necessary bracketry for a perfect fit. The airbox has a similar design to the stock airbox, facilitating an improved pressure drop with an open top, so that the filter is exposed to more air while also sealing the box against the hood, keeping it fully enclosed. This airbox uses the factory air inlet ducts, grabbing air right from the front of the car, and the ports are surrounded with weather stripping to avoid movement. We have put this intake through hundreds of miles of road testing and countless dyno runs to ensure repeatable and reliable max gains of 12 hp and 15 ft-lb of torque (more details below in our engineering blog). No cutting or modification to factory components will be necessary. This kit is a direct bolt-in for the 2016+ Ford Focus RS, and of course, this product is covered by the Mishimoto Lifetime Warranty.
