Opis produktu

The DSG DQ250 Chromoly Billet Housing Cover is a high-performance component designed to enhance the durability and reliability of the DQ250 dual-clutch transmission system. Crafted from chromoly billet, a type of high-strength steel alloy known for its exceptional toughness and resistance to wear, this housing cover provides superior protection for the transmission's critical internal components. Its precision engineering ensures a perfect fit and seamless integration with the transmission assembly, allowing for smooth operation and optimal performance. The chromoly construction not only enhances durability but also helps dissipate heat more effectively, reducing the risk of overheating and prolonging the lifespan of the transmission. With its sleek design and robust build quality, the DSG DQ250 Chromoly Billet Housing Cover is a premium upgrade for enthusiasts and professionals seeking enhanced performance and reliability from their DQ250-equipped vehicles. Whether on the track or the street, this housing cover delivers peace of mind and confidence in the transmission's ability to handle the demands of high-performance driving. * After the billet housing cover installation, clearance check is required.
