Designed to be installed with the OEM top mounts and springs, optional lowering springs can also be used to for a more sporty set-up. As well as being an economical solution for changing worn out stock dampers, Tein EnduraPro and EnduraPro Plus improve performances, handling and comfort for sporty driving, thanks to their high quality and innovative, Japanese design. Their green, Epoxy finish has been specially optimized for long lasting protection against rust, making the EnduraPro range particularly good for use near coasts or in regions with bad weather (rain, snow, salts). Their twin tube form consists of high quality oil, with anti-cavitation properties, as well as an internal, hydraulic bump stop for better lifespan (particulary with shorter springs). Unlike the EnduraPro Plus, range, the EnduraPro don't have adjustable stiffness. Combining great prices and quality, these shock absorbers are ideal for anyone wanting to keep a stock set-up with performance upgrade. They can be purchased individually. Made in Japan, Tein products come with a 1 year warrantee and guarantee excellent reliability. Characteristics Car Make Toyota Car Model Toyota Celica Range EnduraPro
