Opis produktu

The Forge Motorsport Turbo Blankets are designed to isolate the radiant heat produced by your turbocharger. This design has been created to withstand the harshest of environments. The Forge turbo blanket is designed to assist in the protection and prolonging of your engine components and its unique design will assist in reducing turbo lag and produce cooler air intake temperatures,

You will find that the Forge turbo blanket will lose its flexibility over the first few heat cycles as the material cures, so once fitted it should not be removed as you will likely damage the blanket. Design innovation keeps the heat of the exhaust gases contained within the hot side of the turbocharger, away from the cool side and the intake path. More oxygen per unit volume reaches the engine, therefore giving more power.
